

The Beauty of Uncertainty in Life

By Hyemin Kim

In the voice of Hyemin Kim (The brackets show how I would read it) (Spoken word)

I look up at the sky
Bright and high
Where do I go (Slightly questioning)
Where should I mark my next footsteps in the snow
In the sand, in the flow (Slow yet fast between words)(slow yet fast transition between “sentences”)
Of the sea, (Slow yet fast between words)
In the mixture of minerals and dirt that stands before me.
The clouds, they seem to know..
Follow the breeze? Follow the stars? (Faster)
They say follow your path.
What path?
There's too many.
Some unexplored.
So how do I know what's right for me? (Slower)
What's down there, down the road
What awaits me, what's my future like? (Faster)
Will I be happy? Do I take flight into adventure? Am I mad?
What do I end up to be?
Am I good? Evil? Mixed?
A jumble of what?
The time ticks..(Slower)
Down the road I go
Not at all knowing where to go (The vibe is like, throwing your hands in the air with uncertainty, Read kind of like, not at all(fast), Knowing Where to go..)
But I go (fade of voice at the end)
Because I must (More merry tone, trying to uplift oneself and motivate by giving a reason or a fact, determined voice)
I must go down a road..(determined yet hesitant and unsure)
But which road?
I can switch now, not turn back but switch, but that's too risky (Fast, contemplating)
They say don't give up but also, know when to give up
What (Slight pause after this for dramatic effect)
Which lane do I go (Performed pacing back and forth)
I stand there in front of so, oh so many choices (The oh is soft)
I already made some, how bad can they be? (Hopeful tone)
How bad can they be.. (deflated tone)
Oh I don't know, do I know?
Do I know where to go?
A writer, a painter, an actress, a lawyer

A designer, a swimmer, a skater, a crow?
A crow.. A butterfly? A bird? A farmer that sows?
But what do I sow? Good seeds? Bad?
Flowers or weeds, Trees or thorns, bushes or horns
I just.. Want to be me.
But who is me, who is I?
How do they expect me to decide?
Can't they decide? No, I want control..
I mean it's my life
This.. beautifully disastrous adventure, this gamble, this trust, this Life.
Oh I don't know..
Oh, I don't know.
But I will. I guess.
So I flung myself, putting trust in the breeze, the sea, the trees
Let's see what God has in store for me..
Let's just wait and see.
Let's just trust, and do, and see what comes out of it
Good. Bad.
I mean it's all me.
And I love me, don't I?
Don't I?
Do I?
Do I not?
No,
I do love me. (Kind of hesitant)
I do love me. (More firmly)
And I (Kind of hesitant)
Trust me. (Kind of hesitant)
Trust me. (More firmly)
Right? (Questioning tone)
Right (Determined tone)
So here I go,
Off I go (Faster tone, though not too fast)
Leaving my footsteps in
The snow, the sand, the dirt, the stones, the mountain,
Leaving my mark on this
Lovely, lonely, social, exciting, quiet, loud, uncertain, certain, beautiful world
